The Disciple Maker Index

It's official! The Disciple Maker Index Survey is now open and we need your help! Please help us participate by completing a 10-15 minute survey as soon as possible.

- Take the survey online! Link found on the parish website.
- OR by Paper: Pick up your copy of the survey in the back of the Church. Drop off completed survey in the gold box.

The survey will only be available from April 1st to April 30th and will ask you to reflect on your own spiritual growth and enable you to provide feedback on our parish's efforts to help you grow. All responses will be confidential and the parish will only receive information about the community as whole.

We are trying to get the highest response rate possible. The information will provide insightful benchmarks to Bishop Kemme as he responds to the Synod called by Pope Francis. Sacred Heart will receive the results this spring/summer at which time we will share what we have learned with the entire parish.

Thank you for helping with this important project!!

Harvest House

Next meeting is Thursday, April 14th at 11:30 am in the Bosco Center. Detective John Harrison from the Pittsburg Police Department will be talking about safety for seniors and the latest scams. You may stay afterwards to visit or play cards. Contact Mary Murray 620-231-0745.

Holy Week is unlike any other week! The next eight days are consecrated and set apart for God. I want to offer a couple practical tips to help you appreciate the reality of Holy Week. If Holy Week is going to be consecrated, made holy, we must prepare for it well and be ready to receive everything God wants to offer us. In the Old Testament God taught his chosen people how to prepare for worship. It's important for us, too, to prepare with care for Holy Week. First, we must be intentional. The celebration of Holy Week will not just happen. Unless we carve out time we will not be able to prepare or observe the holy days well. Second, we must be prepared to make sacrifices. Most of us are overextended with our busy schedules. If we are going to have more time, we will have to be honest about the need to let go of some things. We may have to change our rhythm at night to celebrate Holy Thursday. This may mean taking a day off from work on Good Friday. Third, we need to pay attention to the details. For example, what time are services at Sacred Heart? Now is the time to find out, to begin thinking about next week. Now is the time to prepare.

- Think through Holy Thursday night: What will it take for you to make it? What is the best way for your family to pray through the day?
- Think through Good Friday: Can you take off from work or school? Is it possible to set the day aside as a day of prayer? What is the best way for your family to pray through the day together?
- Think through Holy Saturday: It is not Easter yet. Jesus remains in the tomb. How can you keep a quiet and prayerful spirit in your home this day?
- Think through Easter Sunday: What will it take for you and your family to be able to pray in the midst of other plans you may have?

To prepare for Holy Week, I would like to present three distinct ways we can get ready. First, we can fast from using our smart phones. If we have the courage to become honest, most of us do not use our smart phones mainly as phones. We use them as entertainment or information devices – in other words, as distractions. To be clear: I am not recommending that we completely ignore our smart phones or even turn them off. I am recommending that we use them only as phones – as communication devices – a fast from using them to surf the Internet, listen to music, engage in social media, or purchase things. Apart from the essential emails, text messages, or calls, can you fast from using your smart phone this week? Do you have the discipline to fast from these forms of distraction?

Second, we can fast from other exterior “noises” – this means no radio, television, or music. Intentionally creating exterior silence can have a dramatic impact on our availability to experience interior silence. We quickly discover how distracting the constant noise in our lives is. We also discovered a quiet, subtle voice of God, who has always been speaking to us but has often been drowned out in all the noise. Do you have the discipline and self-possession necessary to intentionally create more silence in your life?

Third, we can fast in the traditional way – from foods and alcohol. Fasting from alcohol means giving it up entirely. Fasting from food means no snacks between meals: it means limiting the amount of food you eat into three meals to the equivalent of just two regular meals. Eating less and avoiding alcohol creates a hunger within us, and physical hunger is meant to elicit spiritual hunger. Creating more space in our bodies has a direct influence on creating more space in our hearts.

These might seem like extreme suggestions. Most of us would struggle with one of these, so you might ask if you can really do all three. You can! You deserve to challenge yourself, and God deserves your full effort next week. Because next week is not like any other week: it is the week. Fasting from our smart phones, noise, and food is a small sacrifice in comparison to how much God is offering us.

May God bless you and your family as you enter Holy Week!
